PRESS RELEASE

EX SITU

URBAN ART TAKES UP QUARTERS AT STUDIO 13/16

APRIL 13 – JUIN 16, 2013

STUDIO 13/16, LEVEL -1

The Centre Pompidou's Studio 13/16, the first space dedicated to teenagers in a major cultural institution, presents Ex situ, a new program devoted to urban art.

The term "Ex situ" refers to an "off-site" conservation technique, i.e. outside of its natural environment. Ex situ explores the methods of showing urban art outside of its natural environment, that is the street. Therefore, it revolves around several themes: respecting the fundamentals and the codes of urban art, creating in situ pieces, engaging in reflection and interventions in relation to a given space and experiencing the ephemeral nature of this art.

At Studio 13/16, teenagers are placed in a situation of creation through direct contact and dialogue with the artists.

For Ex situ, the Studio 13/16 comes to life with the artist residences: RERO, YZ, Ludo, JonOne, OX, Mark Jenkins and Vhils. In the form of collective performances, they invite teenagers to take part in their creative processes and the various techniques of urban art, taking the space itself as a medium: walls, picture rails, floor... at the Studio, in the forum of the Centre Pompidou and on the piazza. These workshops address the various aspects of urban art: in situ work, direct execution in front of the audience, adaptation to the given site, ephemeral production...
